Holidays are Coming

Wow—we're already into December and winter decorations are quickly starting to adorn building and trees around the city—not to mention ECLC's walls!

The winter concert is only 10 days away and I am sure some of you are busy with preparations. We still need helpers for Thursday 10th to help decorate the hall and on the 11th to serve morning tea and clean up. If you are able to assist please contact your room mum.

The holiday market was a great success and out of the 1000 secret gifts that were bought,. We were only left with about 150! These are still available for you to purchase if you still need to do some last minute shopping—see Mrs Park or Haejoo for details.

Alison Wilkes (ECLC School Nurse) ran the First Aide course with 8 participants which was excellent. Thanks Alison, we may well look are organizing another course in the new year if there is interest.

We hope you liked the original artworks items that you ordered.

We give a sad farewell to Mel Wilson as she leaves Seoul in mid December. She has been our Secretary and run the holiday market for the last 2 years, and this year is Picasso Room mum. Thank you Mel for all your hard work and commitment to ECLC, we will definitely miss you and Aleisha next year!!

SEE YOU WEDNESDAY AT OUR CHRISTMAS PTA MEETING.
